Social climate inclusive of pastoral care and our response to bullying

St Brigid's strives to create a school climate that addresses and respects the needs of the whole school community. Students are encouraged to accept that their rights are accompanied by responsibilities. All staff use a pastoral model of positive reinforcement in guiding the behaviour of our students, encouraging them to be children who, through their actions, demonstrate a respect for people and property. We encourage ownership and responsibility of their actions and regularly reward the right behaviour. The emphasis on Gospel values is a living example of the Catholic ethos of the school. We employ a "wrap around" approach to the management of individual issues -an approach that emphasises a team approach and collegial support for staff and a whole school ownership of challenging issues. A pastoral worker (three days a week) operates clubs (gardening and crafts) at lunchtimes, as well as tending to the pastoral care of students and families. We use a proactive/preventative approach to bullying where students are given tools to reduce bullying behaviour by promoting school wide rules and explicitly taught strategies.
Parent, student and teacher satisfaction with the school

St Brigid’s has a long and proud history of working closely with the local community to deliver quality relationships amongst all stakeholders. The P&F meet monthly to plan and deliver activities that respond to parent and school needs. The meetings provide feedback on initiatives and plans for the year. The parent body generally supports all school activities which take the form of spiritual and social gatherings, forums and educational sessions. Feedback from parents at parent/teacher information nights indicate a good sense of satisfaction with the school. Parents when enrolling generally comment on the school’s reputation in the community. All parents and students embrace celebrations of learning such as Book Week. The School Board is actively engaged with working with the Principal to produce school policies, and provides opportunities for parents to correspond and discuss various elements concerning school practices. A special celebration is held in September each year in conjunction with Mercy Day. Results from a survey conducted by Brisbane Catholic Education reported that staff generally found St Brigid’s a supportive, collegial place to work.

Parent involvement in their child’s education

At St Brigid’s, we encourage parent involvement from the time children first enter Prep. Parent programs that include a focus on parent involvement in instruction such as reading9 are conducted on an as needs basis by our Support Teacher Inclusive Education. We provide opportunities for parents to interact pastorally and socially in the following ways: parent/teacher meetings, parent support in classroom activities, Parents and Friends Association, School Board, validation committees for internal school review, meeting with parents, teacher and support staff to plan educational programs for students with special needs, celebrations of student learning, assisting at the tuckshop, completing questionnaires that enable school policies and procedures to be developed, attendance at assemblies and liturgies and whole school events, taskforce groups for particular projects. St Brigid’s has a wonderful community spirit. This is evident on a daily basis and through a variety of ways as the staff and parents work together to support the growth and development of the students.

Policy and practice to manage student attendance

Students are marked present or absent in class each morning by 9a.m. and each afternoon by 1p.m. Students must register their attendance at the office if they arrive after 8.30a.m. Parents are requested to phone the school to advise of their child’s absence each day if the child is not attending. Parents are contacted by the school if children are absent without reason. Students’ absences are recorded on each student’s Semester Report. The principal follows up with individual families about regular unexplained absences. Reminders about the procedure are placed in the newsletters to inform the community.
